

Please be aware of fraudulent websites using our store name!

Thank you very much for your continued warm-hearted support.

We have discovered a large number of fraudulent websites using our store name without permission.

Please try typing "Ōzai Uomikan Mail Order" in an Internet search site.

- (1) <https://twitter.com/ozaiuomikan?lang=ja> (Ozai Uomikan Twitter site)
- (2) https://www.instagram.com/ozai_uomikan/?igshid=u2k70pcut424 (Ozai Uomikan Instagram site)
- (3) <https://www.tomishiro.com/division/pet/> (Tomishiro Products Co., Ltd. Business introduction site)
- (4) <https://auctions.yahoo.co.jp/seller/eucbf33527> (Ozai Uomikan Yahoo Auction! site)

The above four sites are operated by our company, so there is no problem. However, please note that the other sites are all fraudulent sites. (Sorry, we don't want to confuse you, so we don't list the URLs).

The characteristics of the fraudulent sites we have found are as follows;

- (1) The text is copied and pasted from our store, Ozai Uomikan's mail order site.
- (2) Although our store name is used in the product information text, the operating company is not our company, but a completely different company. The information of a completely different company was copied and pasted.
- (3) The pages appear to have been created mechanically, and there are cases where information that should be included on a normal mail-order site is omitted (e.g., fax numbers).
- (4) The website uses a domain name that is not often used in Japan.

If you observe these cases carefully, you may notice something a little strange. However, if you are in a hurry, or if you really want the product, you may be tempted to ignore some suspicious points. We have already consulted with the police (Cybercrime Division). However, even if we find a fraudulent site, we can only tell you to be careful. We are sometimes contacted by people who have already been victimized, but we cannot do anything about it.

We would like to reiterate our request that when shopping on the Internet, please be careful to make sure that the site is trustworthy and reliable.
